OPENING OF THE LADIES' KENNEL ASSOCIATION SHOW.

August Belmont Introduces Blemton Lady, a Great Fox Terrier Puppy—Meadow Kennels Capture Prizes With Irish Terriers Society Attends in Force.

"Man's faithful friend" had many faithful Man's faithful friend had many faithful women friends yesterday, besides men and children galore. The rush was to the first annual show of the Ladles' Kennel Association of America, which opened at Madison Square Garden and will be the day and evening attraction there for the remainder of the ing attraction there for the remainder of the week. Like all new ventures the show was weighed up with critical eyes by the early arrivals. They found every inch of bench room occupied by a dog of high degree, judging going on briskly and hundreds of collookers taking in the sights. The early birds were soon satisfied that the show was a success, and as the news spread uptown, downtown and across town the incoming of sightseers, who are only attracted to a chest that is a go, began early, and demonshow that is a go, began early, and demon-strated that the initial venture of the women is to have a popular as well as a fashfonable support. It was a consummation pleasing to all who love a fine dog, for the exhibit is in every way representative of the best in big or little canines in this country.

The classes included every variety of prominence in the show world, although, sad to say, there was but one Newfoundland benched. He was a noble-headed dog called benched. He was a noble-headed dog called Captain, a maritime cognomen that recalled Byron's Boatswain. The good old sort is out of fashion now, but it may look up again; bench show fancies are often fleeting. Just now the tide of favor is bringing two old breeds again into prominence. Old English sheep dogs and smooth-coated collies. These two types are at the show in unexpected dispatch. French sheep dogs, too have a strength. French sheep dogs, too, have a place They look much like their English cousins and have never before been exhibited in this city. The only place to be found for them was in the miscellaneous class. They were in a motley company—three chow chows and an Eskimo. In this class, too, exhibited in a glass case next to the sumpwere in a motive company—three chow chows and an Eskimo. In this class, too, exhibited in a glass case next to the sumptuous glass palaces of Mrs. Howard Gould's black pugs, was another great novelty, a Griffon Bruxellois, owned by Mrs. Louis A. Thebaud of Morristown, who bought it in Paris last summer. Griffons, the French hunting dogs, are also benched. They are much like the Airedale terriers, much heavier and blue coated, but Coralie, the newcomer, is an entirely different sort of Griffon. Coralie weighs only three pounds; with coat in color and shagginess resembling an Irish terrier; a round skull and rose ears like a toy build dog. The breed may yet become a fad here. This is not the smallest dog in the show, for a recent English importation beats out in this respect the oddity from France. This is a handsome brown Pomeranian, Miss Dorothy Swazles's San Toy, which although? years old weighs only two pounds three ownces. Its silky coat is very pretty and the dog is as bright and cheerful as a kitten. It is plump, too, and has none of the starved, shivering air of the toy terriers seen at earlier shows. San Toy is valued at $1,000. At the other end of the building is a 200-pound St. Bernard that can be bought for $50, surely contrast enough. Pomeranians, toy terriers, Yorkshires and Blenhelm. Prince Charles, ruby and Japanese spanlels are a feature of the show. Mrs. Ferd Senn. Mrs. Smyth, Miss C. C. Whitney, Mrs. Winifred Harrison, Mrs. A. Bernstein, Jr., Mrs. F. S. Stedman and many more women were exhibitors in these classes. However, as is befitting a show under their own patronage, women are very prominent on the list of exhibitors. To an unusual degree, too, they led out their entries in the Judging rings, a pretty custom in vogue at the Ladies Kennel Association affairs in England. Trim and tallormade, the women who had their dogs in leash never appeared to better advantage. Among others Mrs. J. L. Kernochan had her Irish terriers in the ring; Miss May Bird, the bloodhound Westbury Cassandra; Mrs. Card lrish terriers in the Find. Alless May nutrie the bloodhound Westburstima. C. Whitney the bloodhound Westburstima. C. Whitney showed Great Danes, and Mrs. Evans was delighted to lead some of her spaniels to bloe-ribden bonors. Out the ring when George Raper passed on the smooth fox terriers, the last judging of the afternoon. Robison of St. Louis Discusses the Situation -Gossip. Judging from the remarks of Frank De Judging from the remarks of Frank De Hass Robison yesterday professional baseball will be tangled up in the courts for some time to come and even the playing senson may be interfered with. Robison said that the legal proceedings in Part I. of the Supreme Court of New York county before Justice Scott to-day to determine the legality of A. G. Spalding's election to the Presidency of the National League would begin a long fight of this nature involving damage suits on the ground of conspiracy.

"It is a pretty broad statement to make," said Robison, "when a man declares pub-said Robison, "when a man declares pub-licly that he intends to drive somebody out licly that he intends to drive somebody out of business and follows it up with a plan to carry the threat into effect. The laws of the United States will protect anybody, whether rich or poor, against a conspiracy of this kind. It looks to me as if Spalding all the way through has been conspiring against certain clubs and their owners, especially in view of his recent movements and a remark he made to me last March, urging me on no account to compromise matters with Ban Johnson and the American League.

"I'll admit that the formation of a twelve-club League on the Spalding plan with an alliance between such an organization and the minor leagues, with the Players' Protective Association on the side would prove a pretty powerful combination, but I want to say that I believe such a plan inprobable because measures will be resorted to by which the Brookiyn, Pittsburg, Chicago and Philadelphia clubs would be restrained from withdrawing from the National League. It is true that the National League is not a corporation and that it does not own a charter. It is a combination of business interests governed by a constitution. To me it seems improbable that the courts would permit the opposition to engage in a scheme to injure the business of the remaining clubs."

"Is there anything to prevent a club from resigning from the National League, in accordance with the provision for such action in the constitution?" asked The Sun man.

"I believe some such action can be taken, was the reply of Robison, who would not admit that there was no law that compels a partner to remain a member of a firm if he is not bound by contract. "Whatever moves are made by the enemy," Robison continued, "the public can rest assured that the courts will decide everything. There will be a tangle that may tie up the game itself. Spalding evidently showed his cards to those clubs that are standing by him, for they would not have stuck under other circumstances. I wish it to be understood that the New York, Boston, Cincinnati and St. Louis clubs have of business and follows it up with a plan to carry the threat into effect. The laws of the set the date to the end of January in order to allow Bothner's finger to heal fully.

At the same time I wish to call your attention to my efforts to make a match with the counterfeit champion Harvey Parker, who as soon as he heard Luttbeg was coming to New York departed for parts unknown Parker knows Luttbeg's ability and apprentice.

Parker knows Luttbeg's ability and appreciates it so much that he has endeavored to steal from Luttbeg two of his titles; one is champion lightweight and the other is 'Little Demon,' for as such Luttbeg is known all through the West. I am ready to prove this at any time by presenting for your inspection newspaper clippings that speak volumes. Very truly yours.

FORT ERIE, Dec 18.—Jim Ferns, the weiterweight champion, lost that tile to Joe Walcott of Boston in the fifth round of their scheduled 20-round battle in the ring of the International Athletic Club here to-night. Ferns was not knocked out, but he was so badly beaten by the "Black Demon" in the five rounds of whirlwind fighting that he could not continue. He was practically out when Referee McBride stepped between the two men just as Walcott was setting himself to sending the final punch. If he had not done WON BY GOLDEN LINK. Andes Takes the Mile Handleap, His Jockey, Otis, Outgeneralling Henry Bert's Rider-Arack, at 10 to 1, First in the sending the final punch. If he had not done so it would have been a sure knockout for Walcott. Badly beaten as he was and with sure defeat staring him in the face Ferns staggered against the ropes and appealed to the referee not to stop the bout. It was with difficulty that his seconds dragged him to his corner. Ferns was much broken up over his defeat. Walcott rushed across the ring, grabbed Ferns's hand, and with his face corner. Ferns was much broken up over his defeat. Walcott rushed across the ring, grabbed Ferns's hand, and with his face wreathed in smiles he promised the defeated champion a return match.

After the fourth round Ferns was at the mercy of Walcott. He fought hard and brought into play every bit of ring general-ship he possessed, but it was of no avail and Walcott, as strong as when he started, went after the Rube in every way. Walcott swung right and left, landing some slashing blows which did much damage to the champion's already weakened constitution. He knocked Ferns down and that individual took the count. As he arose Walcott rushed in and landing a swinging right on the right ear toppled over Ferns again. Ferns crawled on his hands and knees to the ropes and gained his feet. Walcott rushed again. Ferns ducked, they clinched and as Walcott was pounding the Rube in terrific manner, slowly battering him down, Referee McBride stepped in and stopped the fight. Walcott was seconded by Kid McPartland, Al Zimmerman and Walter Johnson. Ferns had in his corner Jack Hanley, George Parker and Curley Supples.

Just before the main contest began a telegram was received from Jim Corbett, dated Warren. Pa. He requested that the bout be held until 11 o'clock, Al Weinig challenged the winner of the bout. The police officials took the names of both boxers, their seconds and the directors of the club just before the bout started. It is said a test case will shortly be made in the Canadian courts.

Ferns and Walcott weighed in at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Both boxers were below the stipulated weight, 142 pounds. Both were at least a pound under weight. Ferns looked a few pounds lighter, but clalmed not. When asked his weight Walcott refused to say. He looked many pounds the heavier of the two. He said he was below the weight agreed upon, and that was all there was to it. His huge muscless stood out all over his body.

Hiram Goldstein of Buffalo, and Mike Ward of Sarina furnished the preliminary contest. They were slated for f wener, bringing Golden Linkup with a rush, won out by a nose on the post. It was one of the prettiest finishes ever seen in a steeple-chase.

The mile handicap was taken by Andes, which was greatly due to Otis, his rider, outgeneralling Weir on Henry Bert, who was much the best horse in the race. Henry Bert ran away half a mile in his preliminary gallop, but did not injure his chances to any extent.

Jockey Roscoe Troxler, who was ruled off here two years ago, was at the track to-day. He stopped over on his way to Frisco. He will ride for William B Elliott in New York hext summer. Arack at 10 to 1 took the opening event in the hardest of drives from W. B. Gates, the second choice, and Deponan, the favorite. The latter received a weak ride and should have won. Van Hoorebeke was the good thing of the race, being played down from 25 to 1 to 6 to 1 at post time. He flattered his backers for a half and then blew up. Missile was the favorite in the second at even money, and won without an effort. Lingo, second, took the place from The Way in a hard drive by half a length. Admetus took the mile and a half race, the fifth on the card, in a gallop, from the favorite, Judge Steadman. Fleuron, played for a good thing in the closing event, had to be ridden out to stall off Pyrrho, a 16 to 1 shot. Summaries.

was to the races this afternoon. A nice card brought outsome of the best horses, and also races resulted in driving finishes. From a spectacular point of view the steeplechase

went to the post in this event, with Corillo as the favorite at 5 to 2, while Bristol was the second choice. The entire field ran well together with scarcely two lengths separating the first and last horse. Dagmar was the

I John Piening showed his true form last night at the London Theatre, where he is meeting all comers this week, against Emile Schmidt of this city in a catch-as-catch-can boot. Schmidt is a robust heavyweight, and his knowledge of wrestling is not confidence merely to strength. He is scientific and quick. Schmidt was out apparently to win #25, which Johnny Dunn offers to any one who can stay fifteen minutes with the "Butcher Boy," for he went at Piening in whirlywing fashion. Schmidt was slippery and escaped Piening's grasps with case. Finally he became winded and Piening set to work for a back hammer lock. FLEURON, 3 to 1, WON, ADMETUS, 3 to 1, WON, HENRY BERT, 2 to 1, 2d, were the three good things named to win in our racing wire yesterday. "Plunge on ADMETUS and HENRY BERT straight and place," was the advice given on this pair. ANDES, 3 to 1, WON, and MISSILE, 8 to 5, WON, were named for a place play also. A 20 to 1 SHOT WILL BE CUT LOOSE TO-DAY.

You can win out a Christmas bankroll on this one. Our track experts telegraphed us last night that they had positive knowledge of a 20 to 1 shot that would be out loose in the first race to-day that is a better betting proposition than was LORD QUEX, which won at 10 to 1 on Tuesday and on which we advised a "plunge for the limit." Two others at 4 to 1 or so will also be named in our three-horse Terms, $10 daily; $50 per week. Out of town orders telegraphed.
